LIFE

I suits YOU

We live in a society that overall tends to dress down. Our national uniform is a pair of jeans and a t-shirt. However, if you want to break out of the rut, here's your guide for the perfectly put-together man. And, bearing the torch is arguably India's most stylish gentleman, Hrithik Roshan, in elegant J. Hampstead suits. Make way, juniors.

Even if you're a brave heart, we will advise you not to pair a green shirt with a purple tie unless, of course, your name is Hrithik Roshan.

The classic blue dress shirt allows flexibility without the drollness of the white shirt. Best of all, the classic blue bridges the gap between formal and informal simply in the way you wear it. Go blue on blue with a sharp blue suit and tie for a continental look or leave it unbuttoned, sans tie, for a casually modern appearance.

The grey suit is such a versatile piece of cloth that as long as the fit and feel of it are bang on, you simply can't go wrong. As anyone will tell you, pairing it with a crisp pink shirt and black tie is a great look, even if a little too easy and obvious at times. So, why not give it a little twist by going for a scarf instead?

There comes a time in every man's life when he wants to conquer the off-white suit. Since it isn't as dry as throwing on a grey suit, there are a few rules to be followed. It's primarily a fashion suit, so look for one that's a slim-fit with two buttons, and also tailored to your shoulders and tapered at the waist. Also, forget about any embroidery or patterns on the shirt. Keep it dark and simple.

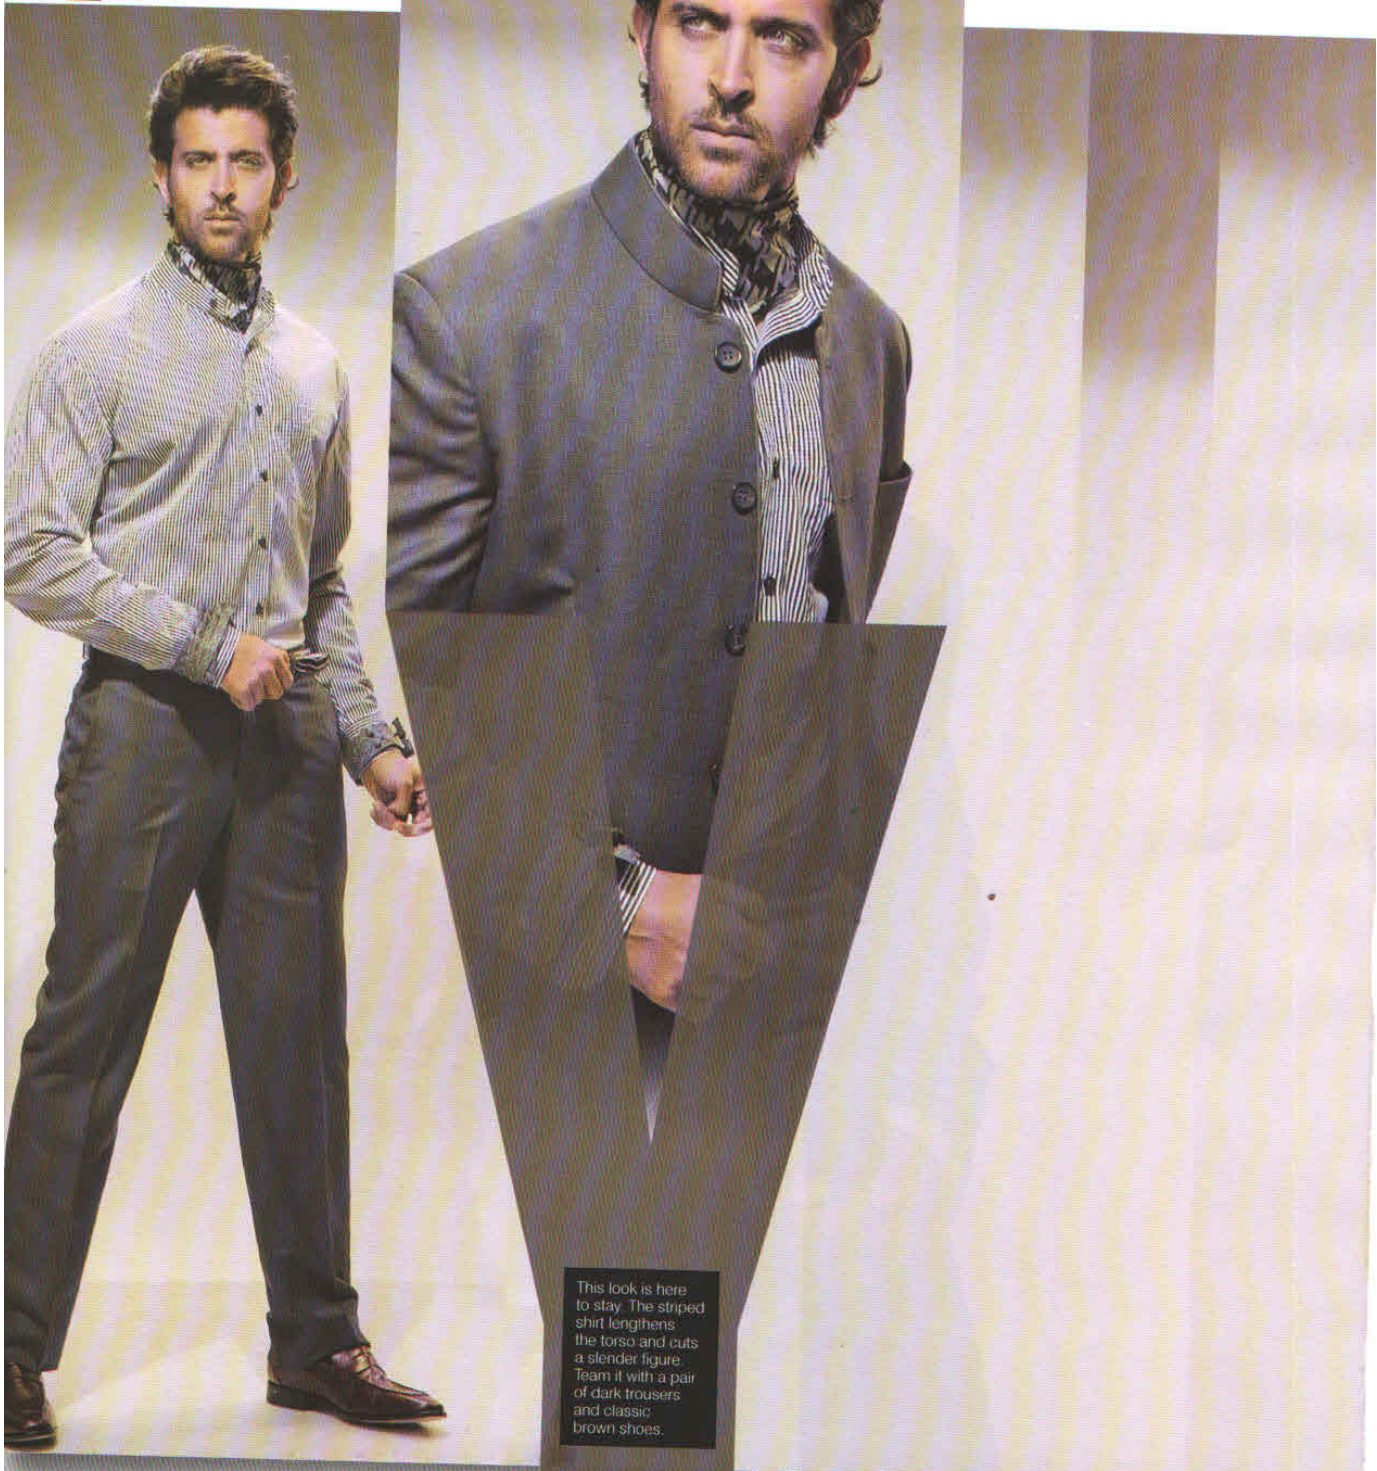

You know why a navy jacket always works in the office? Because it does virtually all the work for you. Put it on, and even if your shirt isn't perfectly matching or your pants fit just a little funny, the jacket does the talking. And a navy blazer (with or without brass buttons) is the MVP of jackets.

The benefit of a black textured suit versus a tux is that it can be worn not only to black tie events and cocktail parties, but also to sober gatherings. Needless to say, it's a classic and a must have!

This look is here to stay. The striped shirt lengthens the torso and cuts a slender figure. Team it with a pair of dark trousers and classic brown shoes.

Acid at least one killer double-breasted suit to your wardrobe. Being trendy is great, but better than a textured military coloured-jacket? Pair it with darker shades and a shiny brooch and stay stylish forever. Mind you, the combo will quickly become your go-to suit on days you want to get noticed.
